

ARLECDON PRIMARY SCHOOL NEWSLETTER

FRIDAY 13TH JANUARY 2023

What a wet week!

The weather has been awful, but our children have as always been a delight.

Our pupils are always very supporting and encouraging and kind to one another and these are qualities we hold highly.

This is regularly noted by visitors who recognise the high standards of behaviour at Arlecdon Primary School.

We do ask that you encourage your children to spend time on TTRS - Timetables Rock Stars or please have fun challenging your children on their timetables, especially in the car - it will make any long journey go quickly!

I am sure you are aware that our Trust has a new name.

We are now called Changing Lives Learning Trust rather than West Lakes Multi Academy Trust.

We have a new trust logo and a new colour theme and we also have new emails.

If you need to contact the office via email it is now admin.arlecdon@changinglives.education.

The building is now surrounded with scaffolding and the work to improve the roof will start next week.

This is the start of a vast amount of work to improve the building, which will be fantastic.

We will ensure the work to the building does not impact on our children's learning.

Have a lovely weekend,

Sophie McCabe

EYFS

This week we have begun our new topic of space. We concentrated on our world and learned the terms earth, globe, North Pole, South Pole and equator. We made a model of the earth with some children painting the oceans and others adding land, poles and labels

We have also used the book Lost and Found by Oliver Jeffers. Linked to this story we have painted penguins using different tools and wrote our own versions of the story. We Laos used lots of different instruments to make loud noises like the ship in the book and quiet noises like the boy.

KS1

This week we have been locating the UK on a world map and locating the four countries that make up the UK on a map of the UK. In Art we explored with clay. We use the tools and water to see how we could manipulate the clay into different things. We have continued to develop our balancing and coordination skills in PE this week. We also included the element of team work to help with our co-ordination.
